Nancy Steinborn

The Monroe Conservation Commission is pleased to recognize resident Nancy Steinborn as Conservationist of the Month for September. Ms. Steinborn is a member of the Monroe Garden and Beautification Club and has taken it upon herself to take the lead in volunteering countless hours to help maintain several areas in Monroe, including the Town Green, the Stepney Green, the Monroe Public Library and the Webb Mountain Discovery Zone

Seeks nominations

Residents can nominate themselves or other Monroe residents who are making a difference and having a positive impact for people, their resources and the environment (not necessarily only in Monroe). Nominations can be e-mailed to monroeconservation@monroect.org or mailed to the Monroe Conservation Commission 7 Fan Hill Rd. Monroe, CT 06468.

"We hope the Conservationist of the Month program will stir additional interest in the community to think about the environment and conservation, not just on Earth Day, one day a year, but on a monthly, weekly, even daily basis," Ellbogen said.

The Monroe Conservation Commission manages parks and open space properties for the town's enjoyment and use, including Webb Mountain Discovery Zone and Webb Mountain Park. It is in the planning stage for the Chalk Hill Nature Trail, Lane's Mines Park, and the Halfway River properties.

The Conservation Commission reviews all nominations at its regularly scheduled meeting on the first Wednesday of every month and will announce selections for Conservationist of the Month in the Monroe Courier and on monroeconservation.org.

In a society where millions of water bottles end up in landfills every day, and where fast food detritus defaces America's roadsides, activists like Mario and Kathy Hering are paving the road for the future. As spring comes into bloom, and the trash from the long winter is revealed, the Herings will continue to lead by example.
